Hungry for a slice of Hungary? Then join this Budapest tour and be led to award-winning chocolate, authentic Jewish fare, vintage drinks, famous local dishes and a delicious Hungarian dessert.

Highlights

- Experience Budapest through its many flavours
- Walk along unknown streets and visit hidden bars and eateries
- Taste award-winning, authentic hand-made chocolate bonbons in the city's best chocolate manufacturer during the winter season or, or cool off with a mouth-watering handmade ice-cream in the summer.
- Learn about Jewish culture during a tasting at a traditional restaurant that specializes in Jewish cuisine
- Get a history lesson while enjoying the highlights of Hungarian gastronomy

Local Impact: How you will help the local community by joining this tour:

- One of the stops on your food tour works exclusively with smaller farmers in close proximity to Budapest, something that helps to promote sustainable consumption practices.
- Your tour starts in the Great Market Hall, located at the edge of the World Heritage protected area and continues towards the buffer zone of the UNESCO-listed Andrassy Avenue. The Jewish Quarter is situated just next to it and as such, cannot be altered dramatically, which helps to preserve the cultural integrity of the area.

Inclusions: Local English-speaking guide, food tastings at six different locations, a glass of spritzer (or soft drink).

Exclusions: Items of a personal nature and tips or gratuities for guide.

Full Itinerary

Join us for a divine tasting tour as we introduce you to both the popular and lesser-known gastronomic treasures of Budapest. This Budapest food tour starts at the Central Market Hall, a city landmark that's over one hundred years old. There, we'll taste some slices of salami and sausages, get acquainted with the history of the building, and hear a brief introduction on what is eaten and how it's eaten in Hungary.

The hidden streets of downtown are next on the menu, we'll take a stroll ahead towards one of our favourite little eateries where we can try some tasty meat product alongside the locals. Then we'll also stop for a seasonal sweet treat – chocolate bonbons from an award-winning chocolate factory or Budapest's best ice-cream in the summer.

Feeling thirsty yet? Your guide will take you to a cool vintage bar next for a refreshing spritzer and an education in Hungarian drinks. Our foodie adventure then takes us through the Jewish district, where we'll admire the largest and most beautiful synagogue in Europe and enjoy a tasting of more local food. Our stops will include a lovely little fish bistro and a nice modern restaurant with a connection to the Jewish culture where we can learn about typical Jewish food and traditions.

From there we will make our way to the pièce de résistance – tasting a delicious, famous chicken paprikash and a real local dessert in an authentic restaurant just by the beautiful Andrassy Avenue, a noted UNESCO World Heritage Site. We'll finish our Budapest food tour happily full of some of the best Budapest food in town.
