Ready for beautiful architecture, compelling history, eclectic street art, and good food — and all in the hippest Cincinnati neighborhood?! Whether you're a local excited to be a tourist in your own city or you're visiting for the first time, we guarantee that you come away from this Cincinnati wine and food tour with a new appreciation of the area known as Over-the-Rhine. Best of all, you get to experience it while sampling a diverse variety of artisan wines and innovative cuisine.

Your wine adventure begins just a few blocks north of downtown Cincinnati in the vibrant neighborhood of Over-the-Rhine, home to the nation's largest collection of 19th century Italianate architecture.

First, we'll take a short but visually stimulating stroll to view some colorful street art created by an award winning non-profit organization and hear the history behind the murals.

Next, we'll tantalize your taste buds at three local restaurants/wine bars, all located within 1/2 blocks' walk. Sample both domestic and international red and white wines, as well as a varied selection of food tastings, all while learning about wine and how Ohio became the leading producer of wine in the United States during the 1800s.

Along the way, you also hear quirky and interesting bits of Cincinnati's fascinating history, rounding out this perfect evening of wine, food, friends, art, and architecture.
