Local Impact: How you will help the local community by joining this tour:

- At your first stop at the Cielito Lindo, you will enjoy taquitos from a family-owned food stand that has been in business since 1934..
- At Grand Central Market, you'll enjoy a carnitas taco from Michoacan, Mexico, the traditional birthplace of carnitas. All vendors at this historical market are LA locals and non-franchises.
- You will taste a mole taco from Guisados, a local restaurant with several locations and deep connections to the surrounding local communities. They started The Featured Artist Program in 2011 as a continuous effort to display local art and photography in their restaurants. Through the years, artists have benefited from having their work in front of a multitude of visitors from all over the world.
- By joining this tour, you are helping to keep LA's deep Mexican heritage in the spotlight, during times where national forces are creating tension.

Full Itinerary

Los Angeles has a deep connection with its Mexican heritage. In fact, it's estimated that close to half of L.A.'s residents can trace their roots to Latin American origins.

This is especially notable at El Pueblo de Los Angeles, the oldest section of the city and a living monument to the city's vibrant Latino heritage. This is where you'll be meeting your local guide to begin your private taco-hopping adventure.

Your private taco tour will take place in buzzing downtown Los Angeles where you'll be visiting places serving up authentic Mexican food. On our tasting list for the day are taquitos, a carnitas taco, and a traditional mole taco!

After meeting your guide and getting a brief introduction to the area, you'll walk over to the colorful and inspiring Olvera Street, often referred to as the birthplace of Los Angeles.

It's here at this historic Mexican marketplace that we'll make our first stop: Cielito Lindo for a taquito. The tiny stand has been serving freshly stuffed, rolled and fried taquitos since 1934.

After our taquito, we'll take a walk through the federal and justice district of Downtown Los Angeles, making our way to Grand Central Market, a downtown landmark since 1917. The market is home to tons of mouth-watering food, but we're here for tacos! While strolling the market stalls, we'll stop for a traditionally made carnitas taco.

After Grand Central Market, we'll visit the Spring Arcade Building, another spot filled with great food, for our last tasting: a mole taco.

Your private taco tour ends here. Before you go, be sure to ask your guide for recommendations on what else to see, do, and eat in the city.

This tour is priced for a minimum group size of two travellers. A solo traveller may still book this private experience but will be charged the base rate for two travellers.
